POLITICS AND POLITICIANS

Gov. Beckham won his point, Kentucky is now the only State in the Uhion that puts a gallon unit tax on rectified whisky, says the Louisville Herald. It is another feather in the cap of Kentucky's model Governor and will further endear him to the reople, when they realize that his efforts will result in over one hundred thousand dollars gain in taxes and the consequent lightening of the burdens of other tax-payers.

No man in the General Assembly made more true friends, and came out with acleaner record than Senator Jack Chinn. The impression prevailed, with some at least, that he was a swash buckler and a bluffer, fit only to fight, booze and handle knives and pistols. Instead they found him a mild mannered man, always on the side of morality and the good of the State and society. He not only surprised those who didn't know him but he surprised those who did know him by his splendid work and achieve ments. He grew in the public estimation every minute of the time from the beginning to the end of the session, and went home carrying the praises of every one who watched his course. We have years, and while we were aware of his many noble and excellent traits we were not prepared to expect the power of good he accomplished. The temperance people especially owe him a debt of gratitude for his efforts in behalf of the County Unit Bill, for which he did so much to enact into law.-Kentuc ky State Journal.

Twenty years ago its existence. was unknown. Prof. Dewn, of England, produced the first ounce that was ever made, at a cost of $3000, Mr. Triples of New York City now manufactures it at the rate of 20 cents a gallon.

If a pot of liqid air is placed upon a block of ice, the air will boil like a tea-kettle, - so much warmer is the ice than liquid air. It freezes alcohol-and be it remembered that alcohol does not treeze this side of 202 degrees below zero. Mercury, if poured in a vessel of liquid air, immediately freezes into a lump so hard that it can be used for driving nails. Other metals also, are froze by liquid air. All the precious metals, such as gold become so flexible that they are easily bent by the fingers. Iron and steel, on the other hand, are made brittle, and will shatter like glass if dropped on the floor.

HOME COMING WEEK OF FORMER KENTUCKIANS.

The Louisville Commercial Club s this week sending out to the General Passenger Agents of every rulroad in the United States printed copies of the 35,000 names of former Kentuckians, to whom invitations for home-coming week have been sent. The list will go into the liands of about 1-11 General l'assenger Agents, who in turn i will furnish the District P. ssenger Agents of their roads the names of the former Kentuckians in their respective territories

The Traveling Paisenger Agents the City Passenger Agents and other officials of the railroads will personally visit many of these former Kentuckians and will do much to increase the attendance in lonisville during home-coming wek. Many of the railroads are getting out handsome folders especially advertising home-coming week, and in many other ways are giving wide publicity to Louisville and the reunion.

A list of 35,000 names, if printed in an ordinary eight column newspaper, will require more than a forty-page newspaper with columns thirteen ems wide to print all the names. The Commercial Club has had the names printed on pages thirteen columns of uine ems wide, or a list making 550 columns, set in nonpariel type This ist supplemented by lists of additional names from the Kentu ckians as they are received at the Commercial Club, and by June the names of probably 150,000 former Kentuckians will have been printed and given to the railroads.

OLD CLERKS REDUCED.

BLOW ABOUT TO FALL UPON VETEREN MEN OF THE GOV-ERMENT DEPARTMENTS.

Congress Preparing to Cuti Salaries and Discharge Older Employees Who Have Spent Best Years of Life in Serving Uncle Sam.

The blow, which the older government cierks at Washington have for sometime feared, is about to fall, and if the House of Representatives follows

The investigation carried on by the Appropriation Committee, shows that over $2,000,000 is annually paid to clerks over 65 years of age, and that if the plan proposed is carried out, over 75 percent of these will be reduced. This will mean that many faithful employees of the government, who have grown old in the service of their coun-try, will suddenly find their incomes cut nearly in half.

It is often stated that the average government job is an easy one, with short hours and good pay, so that there is something of a disinclination throughout the country to feel or ex-press much sympathy for the government clerk who is reduced, or per-chance, dismissed for any reason. As a matter of fact, however, these posttions in Washington, are most trying and unprofitable (unless we except a few cases, in which the work is technical, with the possibility of leading to better things outside in the companying world, and offer a few years. merciai world), and after a few years of service, leave the incumbent without the capability of making his way in business, if suddenly thrown upon his own resources.

Most of the government bureaus are large offices, where a clerk may be engaged for years in a single line of work, his knowledge and experience, although narrow and circumscribed, thus becoming valuable to the govern-In the meantime, his salary has been barely commensurate with his living expenses, and aithough some of the government employees with thrifty wives may have been able to buy a modest home, the proportion of these not large.

Then, after twenty years of confining and uninspiring labor, comes his dis-charge, and he finds himself completely out of touch with all former busi-ness knowledge and relations, unable to earn as much in a new line of life as could his recently graduated son. This would mean that the man who has entered government service in middle life, and through meritorious effort and faithful endeavor has worked up to a saiary of $1600 or $1800, would in his ripe years and experience, be thrown out on the world, like an old horse, who has served his master faithfully but has lost the vigorous step and stylish action of a younger animal. Had this man been connected with a big commercial house for those twenty years, his business associates would delight io honor him with the increased salary ing up the structure of their worldly

The sentiment has been freely exressed upon the floor of the House, owever, that it is not believed that a majority of its members will favor any drastic measure of cutting down the income of faithful clerks. One plan discussed by the House Committee, embraces a provision that when any employee shall have reached the age of 70 he shall be immediately dismissed

While $1,000 might appear to be a reaonable living in the smaller towns, in Washington, where expenses are so heavy, it is a small sum for a man of family. Old and honored government employees, from the administration of Washington down, have resigned or died in the nation's service, but Congress in its wisdom, in these days of unwonted national prosperity, seems to be pursuing extraordinary methods to increase the efficiency of the service

Post says: What a kind and benefi-cent government it would be that would cut a faithful servant, who had served it for years and who is as efflcient a clerk now as he was ten years ago, because he has reached the age of sixty-five! What an inducement to faithful service! What a splendid example of the "merit system." But it probably serves a man right for reaching the age of sixty-five, and being still vigorous and faithful and capable in the public service.

The Speaker of the House, the honorable Joseph G Cannon, who will be seventy years old on the 7th of mittee take a back track on this Osleritish proposition. If the provision should not be stricken out in the House the twenty-six Senators who are over out ought to be able to give it a quietus in the Senate.

Claim That Victims of Electric Chair Can Be Brought Back to Life.

His only requirements are that he be allowed to take due to his experience and wisdom, the body within fifteen minutes after which had done so much toward build-life is pronounced extinct and that the orains be not baked or the lungs caronated.

Mr. Berger states that he, himself, received more volts than are supposed to be necessary to kili a man and that he knows of cases where as high as 3000 and 4000 voits have gone through men's bodies and they h stored to life and health.

He cites as an illustration, the case of Joseph Avereli, a Baltimore line-man, who was caught in an aiternating current of 3000 voltage and thrown from a pole to the middle of the street. He was removed at once to the city hospital and emergency treatment was quickly applied. Both of his hands were burned to a crisp and his skuil was almost fractured by the fail to the street, but he recovered.

Mr. Berger's method is very simple and one that he claims may be followed by any person who is cool-headed and not likely to become excited. He lays the victim of electrocution on his back with a roiled coat or bianket under his shoulders so that the head is allowed to fall backwards. The operator should kneel behind the head of the patient, facing him, grasp the elbows and draw them weil over the head, so as to bring them almost together above and hold them there for two or three seconds. He should then carry the elbows down to the sides and front of the firmly compressing it by throwing his weight upon the elbows.

Further Descriptions of a Delightful Trip From St. Augustine Through The Lake Region of Florida-Hanging Spanish Moss.

A word more before I leave the beautiful city of St. Augustine in Sunny Florida, although the whole of our visit was not made as a matter of fact in sunshine. We went into the old Cathedral with its three bells "all in a row," and one smaller bell hanging above, one of these being the oldest bell in the United States. We also visited three of the principal churches in the city—the pretty Episcopal, the unique Methodist, and the beautiful Presbyterian church, the last a memorial built last Leen realized.

Good-Bye To Old St. Augustine,

The next morning, after four days visit, we had to say good-bye to this fascinating old city. It contains so much—the superb hotels with their wealth of beauty and luxuriant courts filled with tropical vegetation, the churches, the fort, the quaint old streets, the shops, the bay, the sea, the beautiful blue of sky and ocean, the sunshine—all me, it makes a picture I shall never forget, a dream that has at last Leen realized. A word more before I leave the beau-Methodist, and the beautiful Presbyterian church, the last a memorial built by Mr. Flagler for his only daughter. Fort Marion, one of the sights of St. Augustine is an old Spanish fort, described, but kept in repair for visitors. We climbed the famous stairway to the ramparts where the view of bay, harbor, town and occan is so fine. I stood in the sentinel towers on the four in the sentinel towers on the four in the sentinel towers on the four corners of the Fort and aimost imagined I could see the enemy approaching. To me the quaint old streets of the town where most fascinating; there are no sidewalks, and one has to hug the no sidewalks, and one has to hug the deck, and so spacious that only one of second story verandas are not uncommon and one can easily shake hands with his neighbor on the opposite ver-anda or balcony. Hundreds of pretty things in palmetto, shells, etc. were also exhibited. All of this we saw in the rain and mist—some of the time under an umbrelia, at other times too interested to remember that it rained.

View crooked, there is a short vista through these weird looking trees, with their branches reaching out toward Heaven, and the Spanish moss swaying gracefully back and forth in the breeze. The surface of the water was covered with lily pads, "bonnets" the captain called them, but it was too early in the season for the lilies.

We stepped out on deck, and saw the most wonderful sight of all, "The Gates" as it is called. Here the stream is so narrow that the branches of the great cypress meet overhead, and the gray Spanish moss hangs down like a long delicate veil. A BY-WAY OF ST. AUGUSTINE.

Each day we drove through the deep sand, the horse just walking; but it was lovely, lazing along after this fash-ion, through pine woods, tall straight trees with a sheaf of leaves at the top, and always the gray moss swinging gracefully in the breeze.

Mattresses Of Moss.

This Florida moss, by the way, is not moss at all, but a kind of minute pineapple, and it seems that both it and the pineapple are true air plants. There is no underbrush in these Florida pine woods except now and then patches of scrub palmetto, which looks like the ordinary ornamental fan palm that we cultivate for ornament in the north, except that it never grows high nor has any trunk.

Coming over a little rise we would perhaps look down on a pretty lake, its banks lined with orange groves. Every drive we took showed us several new lakes so that this seems well named the Lake Region of the state.

Colonel T— has a beautiful home among the pines, and there I plucked my first orange and grape fruit, my first lime and lemon. There, also, I saw the fragrant blossom, the green orange and the ripe, yellow fruit, all growing on one tree. One of the finest groves we visited contained 1,000 trees, cover ed with oranges, while many of the trees were full of bloom. These bride's flowers look like white wax stars among the rich, dark, varnished leaves, and the trees met overhead, forming arches under which we drove-one of the most attractive sights imaginable. We pulled all the fruit and blossoms we wanted. It is a fascinating experience to stand under a large orange or grape-fruit tree, and look up through the branches, the leaves so rich and green, with golden globes hanging ing domain and finding new localities. LEASING PUBLIC LANDS.

DANGER TO THE HOMESTEAD IN ATTEMPTS TO PROVIDE LIVE STOCK GRAZING.

Measures Pending in Congress to Allow Stockmen to Fence and Graze-Difficul y Lies in Protecting Rights of Settlers.

There is a strong movement afoot and several bills have been introduced in this Congress to provide a system of renting or leasing the public graz ing lands of the West at a small charge of from one to five cents per acre. There are some 300,000,000 acres of vestern public lands which come under the general classification of "Grazing Lands," some of which are extremely barren in character-almost desertand are capable of sustaining live stock at the rate of only about one head of cattle to 30 or 40 acres; other lands where there is more rainfall, are much better for grazing purposes, and some of the best of them are capable of sustaining a steer on probably 2, 3 or 5 acres. Many of the latter class are wever, suitable for homesteads.

The difficulty has always been, as i today, to provide a rental plan which will give stock raisers a sufficient con-trol of the land to warrant them in encing it and improving its grazing apacity, at the same time leaving the onditions such that the settler and rospective home-steader will at all imes have free access thereto.

Under the improved methods of farm-ng advocated by the Department of The aged physician, w Agriculture, and the new drought resisting crops which are being introluced by that Department, large tracts hitherto considered fit for nothing but under the head of agricultural land.

The climatic conditions of the interand the settler (where he is not him to treatment, but he turned a deaf ear a leasing bill which will give some protection to the overcrowded grazing lands and at the same time afford the honest settler an advantage at all times to establish a home, is considered to be a dubious question. Chairman Lacey's leasing bill does not seem to be much of an improvement upon the measures previously brought before Congress. Unless the small stockman and the homesteader, with 25 or 50 head of cattle or a band of 100 or 200 sheep, eels that he is to be protected, and not driven out of business by the big out-fits, he will kill this bill as he has killed all such previous bills which have been presented.

Viewed from a broader standpoint he danger to the country lies in tying up under lease large areas of fertile country which are suitable for home-making under their present natural condition without irrigation, and which are gradually settled as further know edge is gained of them, and better methods of farming them are intro luced are naturally against any settling and (tive measures as suggested themselves ing domain and finding new localities, successful foothold to carry on agricultural operations.

The Lacey Leasing Bill. One bill in particular has been introduced by Chairman Lacey of the Public Lands Committee of the House, and is apparently intended to protect small stockmen as well as to provent any restrictions against the settler. In the first place it provides that no corporapiece of land, may lease as much as 3,200 acres, which in most grazing localities would not be an excessive amount. The measure provides that such leases shall not be transferred, and that where they include watering places there shall be left open a "right of way" for other stockmen to pass through the land and to use the water for their stock. It also leaves the leased land open at all times to home stead entry by actual settlers. On the face of it this looks equitable, and as though it might be administered apparent that it would be exceedingly difficult to prevent a big cattle corporation from hiring a dozen cowboys to take up homesteads in their own names erecting thereupon shanty residences, claims and their 3,200 acres each, of leased land, for the benefit of their employers; so that a single cattle bar-on might easily acquire the use of 30 or 40 thousand acres.

Hard for the Homesteader.

It is also not at all certain that once holding a lease to the land and with a fence around it, the cowboy might not bulldoze intending settlers into passing on to some less hostile region. No homebuilder, unless he be made of exceedingly stern stuff, cares to attempt making a home in the face of a Win-chester or of threats that if he attempts a settlement, his fence wires will be cut, his grass all eaten off and the place be made so hot for him that he will wish that he had never gone Into the cow country. This course has been pursued by the stockmen with great success in many western sections, even where the settler was trying to make a home upon free public land, where the cattlemen had no shadow of legal right to fence or hold it. That the legal lease-right to fence the land and keep other stockmen off would be invoked to repel settlement goes without saying.

"Things have been coming my way for a fact, and it is very remarkable You know Sturtevant, don't you? It's all due to him. I was plumb down on my luck when I met Sturtevant. He told me a story, and, really, old man, it is the most remarkable story you ever heard; it made a new man of me "It must be a remarkable story," I said, incredulously. "Sturtevant menioned it to me once. I have not seen

There are Cosgrove and Phillips,-friends of mine,-you don't know them. Sturtevant told them the story, and they have experienced the same results that I have; and they are not the only ones either."
"Do you know the story?" I asked

Will you try its effect upon me? "Certainly; with the greatest pleasure in the world. Excuse me a minute will you? I see Danforth over there. Back in a minute, old chap.

He nodded and smiled,-and was gone. I saw him join the man whom he had designated as Danforth, My attention was distracted for an instant, and when I looked again, both had dis appeared.

If the truth be told, I was hungry. My pocket at that moment contained exactly five cents; just enough to pay my fare up-town, but insufficient also to stand the expense of filling my stomach. There was a "night owl" wagon in the neighborhood, where I had frequently "stood up" the purveyor case of a young girl that came under my own observation. She was ill with of midnight dainties, and to him I ap plied. He was leaving the wagon as was on the point of entering it, and accosted him.

"I'm broke again," I said, with ex treme cordiality, "You'll have to trust me once more. Some ham and eggs, l think, will do for the present."

He coughed, hesitated a moment, and then re-entered the wagon with me. (Continued on page 3).

Miss Florence H. King of Chicago en joys the distinction of being one of the few women patent attorneys registered in the Patent Office at Washington.

Fifteen years ago Miss King, then an gnorant country girl, earning her living as a domestic, chanced to over-hear a quarrel between two families which was taken to court for settle-ment. Miss King was subpoenead, as a witness, and among other undreamed of things which dawned upon her in he course of the trial the occupation of the court stenographer was the most interesting. After court adjourned she questioned the court stenographer on what he had been doing and his auswers settled the vexing question of a profession for herself. She was not satisfied to remain a domestic; the more genteel employment of a school teacher, which her family had suggested, did not appeal to her. "I will become a court stenographer," she said. At this point in the story of her life Miss King said with a smile: "Having become court stenographer I wanted to become the court.

In May, 1895, Miss King was admited to practice at the bar of Illinois. She specialized on patents, and soon elinquished court reporting to devote ierself to her practice

CHAPTER II.

John Ogden turned his head: the muzzle of a Winchester carbine was within an inch of his neck, and the Sheriff's cruel eyes were behind it. Ogdeu felt numb and nerveless. In a flash he saw the significance of the ing distance of a rattlesnake.

"Walk out of this," said the Sheriff.
Ogden turned to the door, meeting with a few faithful adherents, caused the whole army, consisting of about three thousand men all told, to be disarmed and their weapons hidden. The following day she offered to lead them unarmed to Delhi, but the army thought better of it. This plucky act probably had a great influence on the trend of events, and it undoubtedly saved the British residents at a neigh boring town from massacre.

Bhopal has always been one of the most friendly of the Indian States. So far back as 1778, when Gen. Goddard marched across India, Bhopal was the only Indian power which showed itself friendly. In 1818 the British Government ernment formed an alllance with Bho pal, guaranteeing to the Nawab the possession of the State.

More Liberty for Women. The Shah Gehan Begum, the daugh ter of Sikandar, succeeded in 1868 and proved a most worthy follower of her mother. She threw aside the restric-tions of the "purdah," which imposed the strictest seclusion upon Indian women, and was always accessible conducting business on her own initiative with the greatest vigor. M. Louis Rousselet, a French explorer, thus describes a meeting he had with her many years ago.

"I had an appointment with Her Highness," he wrote, "and so I called at the palace, which is full of European treasures and luxuries. In the room into which I was ushered sat a be evenly divided by 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, little girl whom I took to be the daughter of one of the court nobles, and was on the point of addressing her, when clination of her head said: 'I am the Shah Jehan,' at the same time extending a tiny hand covered with jew-els. When I had somewhat recovered from my confusion I noticed that, al though of diminutive stature, she had a very handsome, intellectual face. She wore close fitting pantaloons of gold brocade, embroidered jacket and muslin toque.'

The present Begum still keeps up the restriction of the "purdah." When she was presented to the Prince of Wales at Indore, she was crowned with gold, her face veiled behind a burka of light blue and her figure draped in blue of a deeper shade. The reign of women in Bhopal is likely to cease with the death of the present Begum, for she has two sons and a daughter, and the heir-apparent is the oldest son.

In submitting the text to Secretary Wilson, Chief Melvin of the Bureau stated that the article was preto give the ralsers of poultry, especially the general farmer, the best information possible in a very concise form. The article is written by G. Arthur Bell, Assistant Animal Ilusbandman of the Bureau of Animal Industry.

fowls which will produce careases and plenty of exercise. No set rules can be eggs of a much more uniform shape, color, and size than will mongrels, all of which aids in finding a ready sale. If one already has a flock of mongrel fowls and cannot afford to buy purebreeds, he should choose a purebreed male bird of the breed preferred and mate him with a few of the best mongrel females. This system, if carefully followed for a few years, will give a high-grade flock that will be practically as good as purebreds, so far as market conditions for dressed fowls and eggs are concerned.

Choice of variety will depend largely on the purpose for which the fowls are kept-whether eggs alone, both eggs and meat, or meat alone is the chief object whether white-shelled or brown shelled eggs are desired; and whether sitters or nonsitters are wanted.

LONG WORTH GUESSED WRONG.

Missed the Opportunity to Get Fam-ous Horse Named After Him.

When a man becomes famous all he incidents of his past life are laid bare. There is a great story going around of how Nick Longworth came near to attaining to fame some years ago, in connection with horses.

"The story runs," according to a prominent horseman, "that some years ago H. M. Ziegler, of Cincinnati, the noted owner of thoroughbreds, and an intimate friend of Mr. Longworth took the latter down to his Kentucky thoroughbred farm to show him his ollection of fine yearlings. "All of these yearlings were as yet nnamed. "'Longworth,' said Ziegler, as they trolled about the stalls, 'you'd better let me name one of these yearlings after you. They're a swell bunch, and almost all of them are well-nigh bound to do something big in the world.'

"'I don't mind,' was Longworth's

'But I'd like to be sure of beslowing my cherished name on a real good one. I'd hate to have a bad one running in my name. My friends of a racing turn would be guying me all the time about my namesake's perform-

'Well,' said Ziegler, 'you're a pretty good judge of a race horse yourself. Now here are two of my cracks in these two stalls. I'll have 'em led out into my paddock by one of the stable hands, and you can look them over and take your pick of them. Whichever one you like the better I'll name after

"'Done' said Mr. Longworth, and the two yearlings were led into the open.
"They were both fine lookers, but Mr. ongworth liked the appearance of the arger one of the two the better. 'That one," he said, pointing to his

k. 'He looks good to me.'
'He's christened "Nick Longworth," then,' said Mr. Ziegler, and the colt was duly named Nick Longworth and registered with the Jockey Club under that name.

'Now, the other colt of the pair from which Mr. Longworth made his selec-tion was afterward named Hermis. Sounds kind o' familiar to you, eh, hat name. Hermis? Well, I should hink it would sound familiar, seeing that, in the deliberate belief of many of the most astute horsemen in this country, Hermis was absolutely the finest race horse ever foaled in the United States, a speed and distance marvel, a bulldog who never knew when he was beaten, and an animal worthy to be ranked with the very greatest race horses of all time in this or any other country.

"So much for Hermis, the one that Mr. Longworth didn't pick out. the one that he did pick out, and that was named Nick Longworth-well, Nick was worth about $9.72 as a racing proposition, and that's about all. He could win a selling race once in a while on Thursdays when the wind was sou'-sou'east by nor', but he couldn't get out of his own way in running with even fair handicap horses, and he lost about twenty times to one win, and it really did come to pass that Mr. Longworth's Cincinnati friends guyed him unmercifully about his namesake norse. Mr. Longworth never, of course, told his guying friends that he'd actually had the chance to get so noble an animal as Hermis named after him. He probably felt that the situation was bad enough as it was.

THE NEGRO AS A FARMER.

Booker Washington Says He is at His Worst In Large Cities

Booker T. Washington in an address t Washington, D. C., recently struck keynote when he stated that, "The negro is at his worst in the crowded ife of a large city, and at his best in he rural districts where he owns and cultivates the soil.

The speaker said the demand in the South for negroes trained for teachers and leaders in the class room, and the factory was tremendous; but more ressing yet was the demand from the best white people of that section for negroes to take charge of their farms, dairies and other industries. This demand is shown, he said, by the fact that every one of the 525 students who left Tuskegee last summer had been en-United States, and especially to that gaged weeks before the end of the term. Washington is solicited by mail, tele-graph, and in person to furnish trained negroes, and could have found places for twice the number had they been forthcoming.
